- * Justice, equity, and compassion in human relations;
- * Acceptance of one another and encouragement of spiritual growth in our congregations;
- * A free and responsible search for truth and meaning;
- * The right of conscience and the use of the democratic process within our congregations and in society at large;
- * The goal of world community with peace, liberty, and justice for all;
- * Respect for the interdependent web of all existence of which we are a part.

Trusting Change: Black History Matters February Worship Services

Sundays at 10 am in our Sanctuary (masking optional) and on Zoom <https://zoom.us/my/cvuuservice/>
Stay for Social Hour in Fellowship Hall

Feb 5—Cancel Culture: A Good Problem to Have? —Rev. Barnaby reflects on how the contradictions between preserving free speech and advancing justice are to be expected wherever oppression and false historical narratives are being challenged. We'll share our offering this month with Razom of Ukraine.

Feb 12—Good Intentions—Rev. Barnaby explores the problem that Intentions, even good ones, start with "I". That's a huge problem in a world where white folks need to get better at recognizing racism's impact on BIPOC folks if our nation is to make more progress in dismantling it.

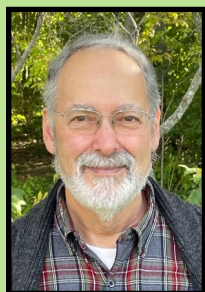

Feb 19—Falling Through Air—What gifts might we receive when we're willing to be transformed? Led by guest Rev. Lindasusan V. Ulrich (they/them), a minister, writer, musician, and activist dedicated to a vision of radical inclusion, deep collaboration, and courageous kindness. They were called in 2020 as the settled minister at the Unitarian Society of New Haven and identify as a non-binary bisexual person of color.

Feb 26—Questions & Callings—As Black History Month comes to a close, Tom Morgan and Esther Charlestin invite the congregation to consider how simple questions can lead to opportunities for generative change.

Minister's Letter

I recently reread Jo Harjo's marvelous poem Remember. It starts out linking us to Universe beyond Earth:

*Remember the sky that you were born under,
know each of the star's stories.*

Remember the moon, know who she is.

Remember the sun's birth at dawn, that is the strongest point of time....

Like many indigenous prayers and invocations, Remember then proceeds through a diverse series of things that need to be remembered: one's birth, ancestors, varieties of soil and all living things (not just their species but the "tribes" they belong to as social beings). "Talk to them, listen to them," she advises. "They are alive poems."

Then the list resumes with climate – wind – and shifts to repetition of the ways we are part of all of this and this is part of us before concluding:

Remember language comes from this.

Remember the dance language is, that life is.

Remember.

It's no surprise I relate to this poem. Much of what you expect of CVUUS is to remind you of what you already believe you know through experience, the received wisdom of others, or faith. Remember, I preach. Remember, the chalice says. Remember this as we sing together, or make a financial offering to share with others, or snack and greet each other in the Fellowship Hall. Now, we can think about the implications for how we will be together in the spirit of Life-giving Love.

But this time when I read Remember, one other thought came to me. There is a more messy type of remembering, best thought of as re-mem-bering. Literally, pulling pieces of a body that have been severed back together again, rearranging what is part of the body, embracing new pieces (or guiding principles?) to make the body a more integrated whole. It's part of living with and for integrity. For so many reasons, I think it's a big part of what we are working on this year at CVUUS after three years of pandemic and with some big transitions ahead of us.

May the sweeping, deeply spiritual vision of unity with all creation in Harjo's poem guide us through the re-mem-bering. Blessed be, Rev. B

Proposed "8th" UU Principle: Dismantling Systemic Racism

"We, the member congregations of the Unitarian Universalist Association, covenant to affirm and promote: journeying toward spiritual wholeness by working to build a diverse multicultural Beloved Community by our actions that accountably dismantle racism and other oppressions in ourselves and our institutions."

Black Lives of Unitarian Universalism \(BLUU\)

is committed to expanding the power and capacity of Black UUs, providing support, information, and resources for Black Unitarian Universalists; and justice-making and liberation for Black people through our faith.

Arrange access to our spaces

Refer people to how to arrange for our spaces here. They are well-ventilated and feature wifi access (1BamaDiva!) and gender inclusive bathrooms. We adjust the permitted attendance level and masking requirements depending on COVID conditions so ask the Office when you schedule. Watch our online calendar for when we are scheduled and when we are available for your small groups or events.

What Are Your Pronouns?

Celebrate gender identity by designating your pronouns on your name tag. Can't find yours? Notify the Office, an usher, greeter or Ginny Ashenfelter. Check the Welcome Table basket in our lobby for collected and blank ones. Contact Poppy Rees about CVUUS Our Whole Lives (OWL) which helps youth explore their sexual identity.

Honoring Indigenous People

CVUUS worship opens with a ringing of the bell and saying: "We recognize that CVUUS gathers on the land of the Western Abenaki people. We respect their spiritual relationship to the land. We hope to learn from them how we can live together in peace and justice." See cvuus.org/

Affordable Housing Conversation

Join us Monday, Feb 6 at 7 PM in Ann Ross Fellowship Hall (no Zoom) to continue our conversation. This emerged as action from the CVUUS Race in America Caste book discussion.

At our first session, ideas ranged from helping families move into their home with the first month rent and moving expenses paid to converting garages and perhaps even barn spaces into apartments. We also talked about partnering with organizations that are also doing good work in this area and demographics. Who do we want to support? In our second session, we learned about Homes First VT. In our third session, we invited reps from local faith groups to brainstorm with us. We are in fact finding mode. Join us. See here & Jean Terwilliger, Mike Small, Scott Barkdoll, Liam or Mike

Greenwood for more. Scan Affordable Housing in VT Report

RELIGIOUS EXPLORATION

RECENT TOPICS IN RE

The Youngers RE group and OWL 4-6 group both talked about gender:

- your "sex assigned at birth" and your "gender identity" are different things
- your gender is something that YOU know, figure out, decide
- the only way to know someone's gender is to ask them > say "they" if you don't know

Some OWL 4-6 "word bank" cards

Standing on the Threshold of Our Future

2023-24 Canvass Pledge Drive

The 2023 canvass will be led by John Barstow (jbbarstow@gmail.com) and Kate Gridley (kmgridley@gmail.com). They said YES to running the canvass because, for starters, they can model the living, breathing example of “coming in from the cold...to the warmth of community ... back in through the door...” and because they love this community. They are using a woodblock print that son Charles made after he found an actual door in a piney wood in the middle of an island off Maine coast. He was young. He thought he had found a magic portal. Kate and John look forward to putting fun into fundraising. They led the service on Sunday January 29th to introduce this year’s canvass theme: Standing on the Threshold of Our Future which featured an enlargement of the woodblock to be colored as we go and the “Quint-Essentials” singing Go Tell It in the Valley based, with respect, on the African-American spiritual Go Tell It On The Mountain. Kate and John will lead worship again on March 5th. Let them know if you’d like to help. Make an early pledge online: <https://cvuus.breezechms.com/form/threshold>. Paper copies available upon request.

Meet Our New Members

Hilary Hatch: I'm in the process of ending the second of two professional careers and now search to find ways to spend the time I no longer devote playing the violin or being an RN. It's pretty daunting to learn a new choreography on the dawn of my 76th year on the planet, but I think that CVUUS found me (and I you all) just in the nick of time. I am a root-grower and resistant to change not of my making, a widow who celebrates being the mother of two grown sons with busy lives. Most of my time is spent in the company of cats and plants which gives me plenty to nurture, but I rely on good friends to help fill my need for thought-provoking company and conversation. I hope to learn a lot about myself and my place in the world as the challenges and rewards of retirement are revealed. Scared? Sort of, but undaunted.

Ollie Cultrara: A recent eye-opening experience was realizing I've been living in Vermont for over four years now! CVUUS welcomed me with open arms when I moved to Vermont in 2018 right after college and at the beginning of my gender transition. From starting as an Americorps member at the Solid Waste District, I've worked for the VT Agency of Agriculture and now work for local farms, including Blue Ledge Farm owned by CVUUS' Hannah Sessions and Greg Bernhardt. I've also lived in Cornwall with CVUUS' Margy and Jordan Young for over three years, which has been a great joy for all of us. And I want to note in case you're not aware: it's generally a good idea to avoid referencing trans folks' given names if they've changed their name. Some people call it their "deadname" to describe the disconnection and distress it can cause to hear it. While that doesn't describe my experience exactly, I'd still very much rather not see or hear it used in reference to me, in pretty much any context.

Mike Small: I'm new-ish to Vermont, having moved to Sudbury in November of 2021, from South Windsor CT. I live there with my wife Rebecca Burton (who sometimes attends UU, sometimes Quaker Meeting), along with my dog (Charlie) and two cats (Assata and Huey - yes, named after Black civil rights activists). I've spent my career working in IT sales, and volunteer on the board of the Otter Creek Communications Union District. While not doing geeky things, I (and my family) try to get our small farm/ homestead going.

Missed Out on Being Part of November's New Member Group?

Rev. Barnaby has a growing list of folks who are considering joining CVUUS as voting members sooner rather than later. If the list reaches 10, he will immediately schedule classes that will facilitate meeting other newcomers and give folks enough information about the congregation and Unitarian Universalism to make an informed decision about membership. Otherwise, the next New UU classes will be offered in April as usual.

FROM YOUR CVUUS BOARD 2022-2023

When I joined the CVUUS board in 2019, I had no idea of the ride that life in our world was about to become. I have learned so much about the importance of human connection, our capacity for caring, and our willingness to persevere in the past 3 and a half years. Each of these lessons have been reflected in our board work during this time.

It is an exciting time to be a board member at CVUUS! Our board goals for the year are: Overseeing the Ministerial Transition, Celebrating Us!, Ensuring Financial Sustainability and Monitoring the Implementation of the Long Range Plan. Each of these goals provides opportunity for reflection, engagement and growth both for our congregation and for each of us as community members.

As well as these goals, being a board member offers the opportunity to have a larger perspective on the strength and beauty of our community. If you are interested in joining a committee, please reach out to me or to Reverend Barnaby. We will help to get you connected. If you feel called to the board, please reach out to our Nomination Committee: Mike Greenwood, Gordon Gibson and I.

Thank you for making this community the gift that it has been to our lives!
